

Supported living services in South Wales

Priory Supported Living South Wales supports people with learning disabilities, autism, mental health needs, acquired brain injury and those who present with behaviours that may challenge, to live the lives that they choose.

About us

We deliver specialist, person-centred support that enables people to lead happy and fulfilling lives, living independently and safely in their own homes, within the community.

Our support and care is completely bespoke and perfectly matched to the unique needs, preferences and aspirations of each individual. The level provided can range from a couple of hours per week to 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

At Priory Supported Living South Wales, we offer pathways of care, with a range of specialist residential placements also available in the local area. We can support individuals experiencing a time of crisis, to prevent possible hospital admissions.

Priory Supported Living South Wales has established partnerships with a number of local housing providers. This enables us to offer a range of accommodation options to meet varying needs, including self-contained flats and shared living. Some of our properties also have assistive technology integrated, to maximise our residents' independence.

Our services

We provide a range of services at Priory Supported Living South Wales. These include:
